章节摘录

On school days , students get up at 7 : 00 a.m. They wash their face and eat a breakfast of eggs , ham or bacon , toast and a glass of milk. Sometimes they might eat pancakes with fruit. The simplest breakfast is a bowl of dried cereal with fruit and milk. Then they dress , brush their teeth , comb their hair , put their books in a backpack , and go to school. Nearly all the students take a yellow school bus. Very few ride bikes. When they arrive at 8 : 30 a. m. , they meet their friends and talk about their activities. They put their backpack in a locker and take just one book , a tablet and a pencil to each class. In lower middle school , their classes are English writing , stories , and poetry , maths , Social Studies , Science , Physical Education and Health , music and art. At noon , the students eat lunch at school. The usual lunch must have meat , vegetable , fruit , bread , and a drink. However , students prefer pizza , hotdogs , and hamburgers with a drink. After the meal , American children like to have a small piece of cake or a cookie. Students do not have a short sleep in the afternoon. After lunch , they are having their lessons until 3 o'clock. They take classes for six hours each day and then return home. Parents allow their children to play or watch TV until supper at six in the evening. After supper , they do their homework. Sometimes there is a family activity where children can be with both parents after dinner.
