章节摘录

You want to hold a memorable party, but you want it to be memorable for all the right reasons. It can be quite simple to hold a memorable party, but that often translates to being memorable because something happened that was unforgettably bad. You do not want to be remembered as the party where Nancy's hair caught on fire or the party where Jim and Ron had the fight that separated the block. You want people to have a good time and enjoy themselves. You want them to walk away thinking this is the best party ever. So how do you do that?

Follow these great tips and you will have a memorable party that people will be talking about for years without any bad memories or tragic tales.

Plan Carefully Nothing will ruin a party quicker than poor planning. You need to plan out everything from the guests to the food, from décor to the timeline. You have to plan out every little detail so nothing is left to chance. Consider everything that could happen and plan for it. Having solutions to problems before they occur can help to prevent an array of catastrophes.

Make a Good Guest List You probably know whom you want to invite, but let's rethink it quickly. You want to avoid inviting people who do not get along or who have had problems in the past. Make sure that all your guests are friendly. Make sure you do not invite someone who is going to get out of control or cause a scene.
