前言

罗伯特·路易斯·斯蒂文森，（Robert Louis Stevenson，1850—1894），英国著名小说家、诗人、散文家。

1850年11月13日生于爱丁堡，1867年在爱丁堡大学先攻读土木工程，不久改学法律，1875年成为一名开业律师。

他自幼爱好文学，大学毕业后便转向文学创作活动，在短暂的一生中创作了大量散文、随笔、小说、游记、儿童文学和评论等。

他的作品充满浪漫情调，被认为是19世纪末新浪漫主义文学的代表。

1878年出版了游记《内河航行》，次年又出版了《驴背旅程》。

斯蒂文森出版了许多有重要影响的冒险小说，其中包括：《新天方夜谭》（1882）、《金银岛》（1883）、《化身博士》（1886）、《绑架》（1886）、《快乐的人们》（1887）等。

1888年因为健康原因，斯蒂文森同夫人前往太平洋上的萨摩亚岛，1894年12月3日在该岛上去世。

在斯蒂文森的众多冒险小说中，《金银岛》的影响最大也最深远。

时至今日，该书仍然拥有大批读者，依然在英国乃至世界文学史上占有重要地位。

在中国，《金银岛》同样是最受广大青少年读者欢迎的经典小说之一。

目前，在国内数量众多的《金银岛》书籍中，主要的出版形式有两种：一种是中文翻译版，另一种是中英文对照版。

而其中的中英文对照读本比较受读者的欢迎，这主要是得益于中国人热衷于学习英文的大环境。

而从英文学习的角度上来看，直接使用纯英文的学习资料更有利于英语学习。

考虑到对英文内容背景的了解有助于英文阅读，使用中文导读应该是一种比较好的方式，也可以说是该类型书的第三种版本形式。

采用中文导读而非中英文对照的方式进行编排，这样有利于国内读者摆脱对英文阅读依赖中文注释的习惯。

基于以上原因，我们决定编译《金银岛》，并采用中文导读英文版的形式出版。

在中文导读中，我们尽力使其贴近原作的精髓，也尽可能保留原作风格。

我们希望能够编出为当代中国读者所喜爱的经典读本。

读者在阅读英文故事之前，可以先阅读中文导读内容，这样有利于了解故事背景，从而加快阅读速度。

我们相信，该经典著作的引进对加强当代中国读者，特别是青少年读者的人文修养是非常有帮助的。

本书主要内容由王勋、纪飞、赵雪编译。

参加本书故事素材搜集整理及编译工作的还有郑佳、刘乃亚、熊金玉、李丽秀、熊红华、王婷婷、孟宪行、胡国平、李晓红、贡东兴、陈楠、邵舒丽、冯洁、王业伟、徐鑫、王晓旭、周丽萍、熊建国、徐平国、肖洁、王小红等。

限于我们的科学、人文素养和英语水平，书中难免会有不当之处，我们衷心希望读者朋友批评指正。

章节摘录

第一章 老航海在本宝客店 Chapter 1 The Old Sea-Dog the "Benbow" Inn 一位老航海步履艰难地来到本宝客店，后边一个人用小车推着他的箱子。

他个子高大，褐色的脸上有一道伤疤。

在店外打量一番后，老航海唱起了古老的歌谣。

门开后，他要了一杯朗姆酒，让伙计把他的箱子搬了进来。

扔下几个金币后，老航海对老板说，要在这儿住几天。

这点钱花完可以告诉他，以后叫他船长就行。

推小车的人告诉大家，船长昨天在乔治国王旅馆，听说他们客店名声不坏，便来到了这里。

船长很少说话，整天带着一架铜管望远镜在小湾附近转来转去，并有意避开过往的水手。

船长还让旅馆老板的儿子吉姆注意一个一条腿的水手，看到就立刻告诉他。

船长每月一号给吉姆四个便士做报酬。

他喝醉后就唱那首水手歌谣，还请店内的客人喝酒，听他讲故事。

大伙都害怕听他讲恐怖的故事，但还是有些年轻人佩服他。

船长住了很长时间，给的那点钱早已花完。

老板向他要，他总是用鼻子发出很大的声音，吓得老板不知怎样才好。

船长穿衣从不讲究。

只见他买过几双袜子，衣服破了，补了又补。

从没见过他打开过他的箱子，也没见他和外界联系过。

一天，李甫西大夫来给店老板看病。

吃晚饭后，大夫来到客厅抽烟，等他的马从村里牵来，船长突然唱起他那首水手歌，拍桌子让大家都静下来，可大夫还和花匠在说着话。

船长又拍了一下桌子，让他们停止说话，并说了一句下流的话。

大夫问是和自己说话吗？

并说船长如果不戒酒，不久一个混蛋就要从世上消失了。

船长愤怒地掏出了水手刀。

大夫平静而坚决地让他把刀收起来，要不下回审判会把他送上断头台，并告诉船长自己兼着本地的治安工作，如果听到他有不轨行为，便把他从此地赶走。

船长没有吭声，老实了好几个晚上。

quire TRELAWNEY, Dr Livesey, and the rest of these gentlemen having asked me to write down the whole particulars about Treasure Island, from the beginning to the end, keeping nothing back but the bearings of the island, and that only because there is still treasure not yet lifted, I take up my pen in the year of grace 17—, and go back to the time when my father kept the "Admiral Benbow" inn, and the brown old seaman, with the sabre cut, first took up his lodging under our roof. I remember him as if it were yesterday, as he came plodding to the inn door, his sea-chest following behind him in a hand-barrow; a tall, strong, heavy, nut-brown man; his tarry pigtail falling over the shoulders of his soiled blue coat; his hands ragged and scarred, with black, broken nails; and the sabre cut across one cheek, a dirty, livid white. I remember him looking round the cove and whistling to himself as he did so, and then breaking out in that old sea-song that he sang so often afterwards:— "Fifteen men on the dead mans chest— Yo-ho-ho, and a bottle of rum!" in the high, old tottering voice that seemed to have been tuned and broken at the capstan bars. Then he rapped on the door with a bit of stick like a handspike that he carried, and when my father appeared, called roughly for a glass of rum. This, when it was brought to him, he drank slowly, like a connoisseur, lingering on the taste and still looking about him at the cliffs and up at our signboard.

"This is a handy cove," says he, at length; "and a pleasant sittuated grog-shop. Much company, mate?" My father told him no, very little company, the more was the pity. "Well, then," said he, "this is the berth for me. Here you matey," he cried to the man who trundled the barrow; "bring up alongside and help up my chest. Ill stay here a bit," he continued. "Im a plain man; rum and bacon and eggs is what I want, and that head up there for to watch ships off. What you mought call me? You mought call me captain. Oh, I see what youre at—there;" and he threw down three or four gold pieces on the threshold. "You can tell me when Ive worked through that," says he, look-ing as fierce as a commander. And, indeed, bad as his clothes were, and coarsely as he spoke, he had none of the appearance of a man who sailed before the mast; but seemed like a mate or skipper accustomed to be obeyed or to strike. The man who came with the barrow told us the mail had set him down the morning before at the "Royal George;" that he had inquired what inns there were along the coast, and hearing ours well spoken of, I suppose, and described as lonely, had chosen it from the others for his place of residence. And that was all we could learn of our guest. He was a very silent man by custom. All day he hung round the cove, or upon the cliffs, with a brass telescope; all evening he sat in a comer of the parlour next the fire and drank rum and water very strong. Mostly he would not speak when spoken to ; only look up sudden and fierce, and blow through his nose like a fog-hom; and we and the people who came about our house soon learned to let him be . Every day, when he came back from his stroll, he would ask if any seafaring men had gone by along the road. At first we thought it was the want of company of his own kind that made him ask this question; but at last we began to see he was desirous to avoid them. When a seaman did put up at the "Admiral Benbow" ( as now and then some did, making by the coast road for Bristol ) he would look in at him through the curtained door before he entered the parlour; and he was always sure to be as silent as a mouse when any such was present. For me, at least, there was no secret about the matter; for I was, in a way, a sharer in his alarms. He had taken me aside one day, and promised me a silver fourpenny on the first of every month if I would only keep my "weather-eye open for a seafaring man with one leg," and let him know the moment he appeared. Often enough, when the first of the month came round, and I applied to him for my wage, he would only blow through his nose at me, and stare me down; but before the week was out he was sure to think better of it, bring me my fourpenny piece, and repeat his orders to look out for "the seafaring man with one leg." How that personage haunted my dreams, I need scarcely tell you. On stormy nights, when the wind shook the four comers of the house, and the surf roared along the cove and up the cliffs, I would see him in a thousand forms, and with a thousand diabolical expressions . Now the leg would be cut off at the knee, now at the hip; now he was a monstrous kind of a creature who had never had but the one leg , and that in the middle of his body. To see him leap and run and pursue me over hedge and ditch was the worst of nightmares. And altogether I paid pretty dear for my monthly fourpenny piece, in the shape of these abominable fancies . But though I was so terrified by the idea of the seafaring man with one leg, I was far less afraid of the captain himself than anybody else who knew him. There were nights when he took a deal more rum and water than his head would carry ; and then he would sometimes sit and sing his wicked, old, wild sea-songs, minding nobody; but sometimes he would call for glasses round, and force all the trembling company to listen to his stories or bear a chorus to his singing. Often I have heard the house shaking with "Yo-ho-ho, and a bottle of rum;" all the neighbours joining in for dear life, with the fear of death upon them, and each singing louder than the other, to avoid remark. For in these fits he was the most overriding companion ever known; he would slap his hand on the table for silence all round; he would fly up in a passion of anger at a question, or sometimes because none was put, and so he judged the company was not following his story. Nor would he allow anyone to leave the inn till he had drunk himself sleepy and reeled off to bed. His stories were what frightened people worst of all. Dreadful stories they were; about hanging, and walking the plank, and storms at sea; and the Dry Tortugas, and wild deeds and places on the Spanish Main. By his own account he must have lived his life among some of the wickedest men that God ever allowed upon the sea; and the language in which he told these stories shocked our plain country people almost as much as the crimes that he described. My father was always saying the inn would be ruined, for people would soon cease coming there to be tyrannised over and put down, and sent shivering to their beds; but I really believe his presence did us good. People were frightened at the time, but on looking back they rather liked it; it was a fine excitement in a quiet country life; and there was even a party of the younger men who pretended to admire him, calling him a "true sea-dog," and a "real old salt, and suchlike names, and saying there was the sort of man that made England terrible at sea. In one way, indeed, he bade fair to ruin us; for he kept on staying week after week, and at last month after month, so that all the money had been long exhausted, and still my father never plucked up the heart to insist on having more. If ever he mentioned it, the captain blew through his nose so loudly that you might say he roared, and stared my poor father out of the room. I have seen him wringing his hands after such a rebuff, and I am sure the annoyance and the terror he lived in must have greatly hastened his early and unhappy death. All the time he lived with us the captain made no change whatever in his dress but to buy some stockings from a hawk. One Of the cocks of his hat having fallen down, he let it hang from that day forth, though it was a great annoyance when it blew. I remember the appearance of his coat, which he patched himself upstairs in his room, and which, before the end, was nothing but patches. He never wrote or received a letter, and he never spoke with any but the neighbours, and with these, for the most part, only when drunk on rum. The great sea-chest none of us had ever seen open. He was only once crossed, and that was towards the end, when my poor father was far gone in a decline that took him off. Dr Livesey came late one afternoon to see the patient, took a bit of dinner from my mother, and went into the parlour to smoke a pipe until his horse should come down from the hamlet, for we had no stabling at the old "Ben-bow". I followed him in, and I remember observing the contrast the neat, bright doctor, with his powder as white as snow, and his bright, black eyes and pleasant manners, made with the coltish country folk, and above all, with that filthy, heavy, bleared scarecrow of a pirate of ours, sitting, far gone in rum, with his arms on the table. Suddenly he - the captain, that is—began to pipe up his eternal song:—"Fifteen men on the dead mans chest Yo-ho-ho, and a bottle of rum! Drink and the devil had done for the rest— Yo-ho-ho, and a bottle of rum!" At first I had supposed "the dead mans chest" to be that identical big box of his upstairs in the front room, and the thought had been mingled in my nightmares with that of the one-legged seafaring man. But by this time we had all long ceased to pay any particular notice to the song; it was new, that night, to nobody but Dr Livesey, and on him I observed it did not produce an agreeable effect, for he looked up for a moment quite angrily before he went on with his talk to old Taylor, the gardener, on a new cure for the rheumatics. In the meantime, the captain gradually brightened up at his own music, and at last flapped his hand upon the table before him in a way we all knew to mean—silence. The voices stopped at once, all but Dr Livesey's; he went on as before, speaking clear and kind, and drawing briskly at his pipe between every word or two. The captain glared at him for a while, flapped his hand again, glared still harder, and at last broke out with a villainous, low oath: "Silence, there, between decks!" "Were you addressing me, sir?" says the doctor; and when the ruffian had told him, with another oath, that this was so, "I have only one thing to say to you, sir," replies the doctor, "that if you keep on drinking rum, the world will soon be quit of a very dirty scoundrel!" The old fellows fury was awful. He sprang to his feet, drew and opened a sailors clasp-knife, and, balancing it open on the palm of his hand, threatened to pin the doctor to the wall. The doctor never so much as moved. He spoke to him, as before, over his shoulder, and in the same tone of voice; rather high, so that all the room might hear, but perfectly calm and steady:—"If you do not put that knife this instant in your pocket, I promise, upon my honour, you shall hang at the next assizes." Then followed a battle of looks between them; but the captain soon knuckled under, put up his weapon, and resumed his seat, grumbling like a beaten dog. "And now, sir," continued the doctor, "since I now know theres such a fellow in my district, you may count Ill have an eye upon you day and night. Im not a doctor only; Im a magistrate; and if I catch a breath of complaint against you, if its only for a piece of incivility like to-nights, Ill take effectual means to have you hunted down and routed out of this. Let that suffice." Soon after, Dr Livesey's horse came to the door, and he rode away; but the captain held his peace that evening, and for many evenings to come.
