章节摘录

Neither would you approve of the delicacies , as they arethought , of Athenian confectionary? Certainly not. All such feeding and living may be rightly compared by USto melody and song composed in the panharmonic style , and in all the rhythms. Exactly. There complexity engendered licence , and here disease ; whereas simplicity in music was the parent of temperance in the soul ; and simplicity in gymnastic of health in the body. Most true , he said. But when intemperance and diseases multiply in a State. halls of justice and medicine are always being opened ; and the arts of the doctor and the lawyer give themselves airs. finding how keen is the interest which not only the slaves but the freemenofa citytake about them. Of course. And yet what greater proofcan there be Of a bad and dis-graceful State of education than this , that not only artisans and the meaner sort of people need the skill of first-rate phy-sicians and judges , but also those who would profess to havehad a liberal education?

Is it not disgraceful, and a great signofthe want of good-breeding, that a man should have to goabroad for his law and physic because he has none of hisown at home, and must therefore surl ender himselfinto thehands of other men whom he makes lords and judges overhim?

Of all things, he said, the most disgraceful.
