章节摘录

Seated with Stuart and Brent Tarleton in the cool shade of the porch of Tara , her fathers plantation , that bright April afternoon of 1861 , she made a pretty picture. Her new green flowered-muslin dress spread its twelve yards of billowing material over her hoops and exactly matched the flat-heeled green morocco slippers her father had recently brought her from Atlanta. The dress set off to perfection the seventeen-inch waist , the smallest in three counties , and the tightly fitting basque showed breasts well matured for her sixteen years. But for all the modesty of her spreading skirts , the demureness of hair netted smoothly into a chignon and the quietness of small white hands folded in her lap , her true self : was poorly concealed. The green eyes in the carefully sweet face were turbulent , willful , lusty with life , distinctly at variance with her decorous demeanor. Her manners had been imposed upon her by her mothers gentle admonitions and the sterner discipline of her mammy; her eyes were her own. On either side of her , the twins lounged easily in their chairs , squinted at the sunlight through tall mint-garnished glasses as they laughed and talked , their long legs , booted to the knee and thick with saddle muscles , crossed negligently. Nineteen years old , six feet two inches tall , long of bone and hard of muscle , with sunburned faces and deep auburn hair , their eyes merry and arrogant , their bodies clothed in identical blue coats and mustard-colored breeches , they were as much alike as two bolls of cotton.
