章节摘录

The theme of this unit is disabilities. It focuses on school-aged children withdisabilities. They have to face all kinds of challenges. Jessiea Cox, an American, was born without arms, but that hasn't stopped hermaking the most of life. She flies planes, drives cars, and otherwise lives a normal lifeusing her feet as others use their hands. She even got her pilot's license on October 10, 2008, becoming the first woman pilot in aviation history to fly using feet. Thefollowing is an interview with Jessica after she got her pilot's license. Interviewer：At first, congratulations on your getting your pilot's license. Each pilothas a different story and background. What about yours？

Jessica：I remember being limited to the swings on the playground in primaryschool, because other equipment was impossible for me to play on. This upset me and Iremember dreaming of flying over the playground like a superwoman. I never realizedhow this childlike imagination would affect the years to come. ……?
