章节摘录

插图：A city's cosmopolitanism is most apparent in its buildings and Shanghai is no different. As the saying goes , architecture is concretionary music. Buildings are the annals of the world. When music and legends keep silent , they keep telling permanence. Buildings in Shanghai also show its history. Shikumen houses ( stone gatehouses ) are Shanghai's indigenous urban architectural feature , and they are the remains of old Shanghai and express its people ' s genuine life. Old houses in Shanghai are the most amazing chapter in Shanghai ' s history. Without them , Shanghai is no longer Shanghai. Shanghai boasts an amazing spread of architectural designs and each holds its own tales and history. More than 1 , 400 old buildings with a variety of architectural styles are the most vivid and telling faces of Shanghai , tracking down the ghosts of the past.
