章节摘录

"Another source of the damage could be very early infant abuse. If you repeatedly shake an infant , you ll lacerate the white nerve fibers connecting the frontal cortex , effectively shutting it off from the rest of the brain and perhaps leading to some neuronal [nerve cell] degeneration. So the question for that maybe , what do we do to prevent early infant abuse. " he says. Researcher Adrian Raine , DPhil tells WebMD that although there is little hope now of curing adults with APD , "We know that in the next 10 years we ll have the first microchip implant to replace the hippocampus [the area of the brain thought to be involved in emotion and memory] , and scientists are working on using microchip implants to replace other damaged brain structures. It s not inconceivable , therefore , that within the next 15 to 20 years we might be able to do something about the tissue loss that occurs in these individuals. "
