章节摘录

depression , anxiety , immune disorders , digestive ills , insomnia and migraines. Sparagon says that human beings are not designed for prolonged , high-speed activity. ‘ When you look at our heart rates , brain-wave patterns - our basic physiology has not evolved to keep pace with the technology - we are hard-wired to be able to handle a “ fight-flight ” response where the stress ends within five to ten minutes. In our current culture , though , we struggle for hours on end. ’ F Even children are not spared the ills of modern-day overload. There ‘ s a hidden epidemic of symptoms like hypertension , migraines and digestive problems among children as young as ten - disorders never before seen in children , says Sparagon. Whether these problems result from being swept into the maelstrom of their parents ‘ lives , or from full loads of extracurricular activities and unprecedented homework requirements - up to five hours a night for some - children are experiencing the same sense of overload , time pressure and demands that their parents experience , “ says Sparagon , ‘ and they don ‘ t have coping mechanisms to deal with it.
