前言

Pinyin is the phonetic alphabet for Chinese characters. It's the precondition of studying Chinese. Standard Chinese Phonetics, based on the Scheme for the Chinese Phonetic Alphabet promulgated by the Language Commission, Ministry of Education, is a set of software applying the most advanced technology to integrate words, sounds, pictures, animations and music. It produces an easy and pleasant learning environment for the learners. Through an overall practice enabled by multimedia technology, learners will soon master Chinese pronunciation.

章节摘录

插图：These three initials are all dentals. In producing z or c, the tip of your tongue is against the back of your upper teeth and the air is let out by rubbing through the channel. The difference between z and c is that in producing c, the breath of air let out is much stronger. In producing s, you put the tip of your tongue close to your upper teeth and squeeze your breath out. The pronunciation of z is close to that of "ds" in English, except for that the vocal cords do not vibrate. The pronunciation of c is close to that of "ts" in English, except for that the puff of air emitted is stronger. E.g.
