章节摘录

Never try to work when you are very hungry. If you decide to do your homework right after school , you may eat something first. Don't begin it very late in the evening , or your work will seem much harder than it really is. When you work for an hour , have a short break. On the other hand , don't rest too long , or you can't finish your work. Don't put it off until the last minute. If you put off doing your homework , you will always think about it , and you won't enjoy your free time. Do your homework at the same time every evening. This will help you make it a habit. It will make it easier to do , and it will make your free time more enjoyable , too.
