附录《金融英语》课程标准

章节摘录

Cash withdrawal is very simple. When making withdrawals, you do not need to fill out the withdrawal slip. All you need to do is to present your bank book or bank card and tell the teller the amount you want to withdraw. If the amount you withdraw is not less than 50,000 yuan, you need to present your valid ID. When you make withdrawals with your password or seal, you need to enter your password on the password processor as required, or stamp the withdrawal slip with your seal. After finishing all the above procedures, you have to sign your name on the withdrawal slip. Within one minute, the bank will give you money and a bank receipt. Of course, there is something different between drawing cash from a savings deposit account and a time deposit account. You can withdraw cash at any time from a savings account. But if you withdraw cash from a time deposit account before the maturity date, the interest is computed at the interest rate for savings deposit instead of time deposit. By the way, using a bank card to withdraw cash is very convenient at an ATM machine.
